

Functional and Integrative Medicine of McCall

My ability to draw effective conclusions about your present state of health and how to improve it depends, to a significant extent, on your ability to respond thoughtfully and accurately to both these written questions and those posed by me during your consultations. Health issues are usually influenced by many factors. Accurately assessing all the factors and comprehensively managing them is the best way to deal with these health challenges. Your careful consideration of each of the following questions will enhance my efficiency and will provide for more effective use of your scheduled appointment time. These questions will help to identify underlying causes of illness and will help me formulate a treatment plan. ***

Mission Statement

My mission is to educate and empower those interested in solving chronic health problems and optimizing their long-term health.
